Market Commentary

Q1 2026 saw continued resilience in equity markets despite mixed economic signals. The S&P/ASX 200 returned +3.2% driven by resources and financials. Global equities (MSCI World) returned +2.8% in AUD terms, with the US market leading on AI-related optimism.

Australian fixed income delivered +0.8% as the RBA held rates steady at 3.85%. Credit spreads compressed further, benefiting the fund's allocation to investment grade corporate bonds.

The Australian dollar appreciated 1.2% against the USD during the quarter, creating a slight headwind on unhedged international exposures.

Top 10 Concentration	12.3% of total fund

Outlook & Positioning Changes

Looking ahead to Q2 2026, the investment team maintains a moderately pro-growth stance. Key views:

- Domestic equities: Remain overweight. Earnings growth supported by resources and housing recovery.
- International equities: Neutral to slightly underweight. US valuations stretched; prefer Europe and Japan on relative value.
- Fixed income: Remain underweight duration. Expect RBA to begin cutting in H2 2026, but timing uncertain.
- Real assets: Maintain overweight. Infrastructure benefits from energy transition capex cycle.
